
Cooperation between U.S. and EU-based institutions is encouraged by the Delegation of the European Union in Washington, DC. Activities should focus on reflecting and discussing on the EU-U.S. relationship and should address a growing transatlantic agenda for globalisation focusing in particular on future challenges and directions of transatlantic relations.

Proposals are invited from think tanks, public policy research centers, and other non-profit and non-governmental organizations based in the United States for activities that encourage policy research and debate about EU-U.S. relations. For applications with such cooperation, a U.S.-based institution must take the lead in submitting applications, with any EU-based institutions involved acting as project partners.

Activities may target broad audiences or specific groups. They may include:

- conferences, seminars and workshops;
- policy research, briefing and working papers;
- briefing sessions and fellowships targeting opinion-makers; and
- other activities that facilitate greater understanding of the EU and EU-US relations and productive dialogue across the Atlantic amongst policymakers and analysts.

Application Deadline is on September 19th 2011 at 5:00pm.

Competition Call for Proposals and related documents can be found under the following link.

Via http://www.euusscientechtechnology.eu/news/show?id=204