The European Career Fair @ MIT is an annual recruiting event that connects employers from Europe with the most talented candidates that live in the US.

The European Career Fair has been organized by MIT’s European Club with support from the European Commission and the MIT International Science and Technology Initiatives every January since 2007.

A dedicated Science & Technology space will promote Europe as a great place to pursue a career in S&T, whether it be in industrial research, within research organizations, academia or science policy. The best of what Europe has to offer will be presented, in all its diversity: public, private, national and international. EU Member States will be represented by their national research organizations and companies involved in research.

The Office for Science and Technology, as well as CNRS (French National Center for Scientific Research), and INSERM (French National Institute of Health) will have a booth at the MIT European Career Fair from January 21st to 23rd, 2012 in Cambridge, MA.
