Inria launches 2012 recruitment campaign

Published on Tuesday January 24, 2012
View online: https://www.france-science.org/Inria-launches-2012-recruitment.html

Inria is a public research body with eight research centers dedicated to digital science and technology.

In 2012, Inria is offering research positions:
- 20 tenured researcher and research director positions, filled on the basis of competitive calls, intended for junior or senior profiles wanting to invest in medium or long-term research;

- 8 research positions consisting of three-year renewable contracts for innovative international profiles: starting positions (after the thesis or a post-doctoral experience) or advanced positions (at least eight years’ experience after the thesis).

These offers are detailed in the document below and on the Inria website: inria.fr/en. The deadline to apply is Friday, February 17, 2012.