Dear friends,

I would like to begin this November Scientific Newsletter by congratulating Serge Haroche, French physicist, who obtained the 2012 Nobel Prize in Physics in association with the American physicist, David J. Wineland and Robert J. Lefkowitz, professor at Duke University who has been awarded by the 2012 Nobel Prize in Chemistry with Brian K. Kobilka of Stanford University, who was a post-doctoral fellow in Lefkowitz's lab in the 1980s.

October has also been the Month for 3rd edition of France-Atlanta. Luc Sensebé, Pierre Dufresne and Christophe Cazaux, three French scientists from Toulouse, met researchers from Georgia Tech and Emory University. It has also been the place for a symposium on "International Network for Automotive Application" celebrating Franco-American cooperation between Georgia Tech and Georgia Tech Lorraine (GTL).

Have a good reading,

Juliane Halftermeyer, Deputy Scientific Attaché in Life Sciences
