Destination Europe events showcase the vibrant and exciting research and innovation culture in Europe and the opportunities available to researchers, from anywhere in the world, interested in working there or cooperating with European researchers. Destination Europe is a joint initiative of the European Union and its Member States.

Come to the Destination Europe event in Atlanta, to meet:

- Experts from European research organisations, universities, funding agencies and European Commission services who will present programmes, initiatives and opportunities to cooperate or to pursue a career in Research and Innovation in Europe.
- Information about the help available for the practicalities of moving to Europe (scientific visa, mobility centres etc.).

Opportunities in France: Land of Innovation and Scientific Excellence

France offers opportunities for both young and experienced researchers to work or lead teams in laboratories, universities and national research institutions and enjoy the French “art de vivre.” The landscape for innovation and technology transfer has been transformed in recent years thanks to a National Investment Plan to increase the visibility and efficiency of these fields. The situation in France is particularly favourable for scientists and entrepreneurs looking to establish themselves within strong national, European and international networks

Speakers for France:

- Dr. Minh-Hà PHAM, Counselor for Science and Technology, Embassy of France in the United States
- Dr. Mireille GUYADER, Director of the National Institute for Health and Medical Research (Inserm) Office in the United States
- Mr. Philippe HAZANE, Attaché for Space, Delegate for the National Center for Space Studies (CNES)
- Ms. Sarah MONDET, Associate Director of the National Centre for Scientific Research (CNRS) Office in North America.
