MIT-France Seed Fund: 2018-2019 Call for Proposals

Published on Friday September 7, 2018
View online : https://www.france-science.org/MIT-France-Seed-Fund-2018-2019.html

The 2018-2019 call for proposals of the MIT-France Seed Fund is now open until September 17, 2018. This two-million endowment fund, created by the French Ministry for Europe and Foreign Affairs and MIT, aims to foster collaboration between French and MIT researchers.

Each selected French-American project will receive up to $30,000. Applications are accepted in all fields. Proposals must be jointly submitted by MIT researchers and scientists working in a French university or research institute.

Priority will be given to projects that propose a balanced exchange between the MIT and French participants and demonstrate complementarity between the MIT and French teams.

Interested parties are invited to get more information and to apply to the 2018-2019 call for proposals online.

Dates:

• Submission deadline: September 17, 2018
• Announcement of the selected projects: January 2019
• Funds availability for use: January 2019 – August 2020

For specific questions, please contact Anne Puech, Attachée for Science and Technology at the General Consulate of France in Boston: anne.puech@ambascience-usa.org.