

Locations

Published on Tuesday January 29, 2008

View online : <https://www.france-science.org/Locations,375.html>

The Office for Science and Technology is located in seven French consulates across the United States that allow us to keep up to date on American scientific activity, technological innovations, and their effects on the economy and society.

Click on the map below to view each location's activities.