The 11th edition of the World Stem Cell Summit will be held in Atlanta this week, on December 10-12, 2015. This international symposium is the largest meeting of stem cell science and regenerative medicine and aims to provide “the research, industry, economic and societal context for understanding how all of the pieces of the stem cell science and regenerative medicine puzzle fit together”.

More than 1,200 attendees from over 40 countries (academics, policymakers, clinicians, experts in law and ethics, industry stakeholders, patient advocates, investors, etc..) are expected over the three days of numerous conferences, focused sessions, poster forum, expert meetings and networking events.

The 2015 World Stem Cell Summit Tracks include:

- Discovery
- Translation & Clinical Trials
- Regenerative Services & Restorative Medicine
- Innovation Showcase for Cell Manufacturing
- Regenerative Engineering & BioBanking
- Hot Topics & Emerging Trends
- Ethics, Law and Society
- RegMed Capital Conference

The Office for Science and Technology at the Embassy of France in the United States is one of the endorsing organizations of this event.
