

Science Breakfast – May 2017 – American Society for Microbiology

Published on Thursday May 4, 2017

View online : <https://www.france-science.org/Science-Breakfast-May-2017.html>

The American Society for Microbiology hosted a Science Breakfast on the global challenge of antimicrobial resistance (AMR), on Wednesday, May 3, 2017, from 9am to 11am at its headquarters.

The event started with a panel discussion with members of the ASM AMR Steering Committee, followed by an opportunity for discussion and networking.

About the American Society for Microbiology:

The American Society for Microbiology is the largest single life science society, composed of over 50,000 scientists and health professionals. ASM's mission is to promote and advance the microbial sciences.

For more information, a summary of the ASM's AMR Steering Committee Meeting is available here: <http://bit.ly/asm-amr>